

Fact 8: Large regions of the world are seeing a significant increase in extreme weather events, including torrential rainstorms, heat waves and droughts source: NCA

- Extreme events have always happened, so it can be hard to tell when they're happening unusually often.
- Nevertheless, evidence suggests that large regions of the world are seeing a significant increase in extreme weather events, including torrential rainstorms, heat waves and droughts.

Click here for high-res version